KEY INFORMATION

- UoC's module system has two distinct features:
 1. Modules contain one to five thematically related courses/ classes that must be taken together.
 2. Irrespective of the number of courses, there is only one exam per module (i.e. not one exam per course!).
- Current course listings for short-term students can be accessed in KLIPS 2.0 via this link (choose desired academic year in the upper right corner).
- Information on all modules (credit points, co-requisite courses, workload reduced options, exams) can be found in the Module Guide for Short-Term Students.
- Short-term students need to send a Learning Agreement (list of their desired modules/ courses) to philfak-incomings@uni-koeln.de for approval, before they can register for courses in KLIPS 2.0.
- Following the approval of the Learning Agreement, short-term students can sign up for courses during course registration periods.

1. The Short-Term Study Programme of the Faculty of Arts and Humanities

During your stay at the University of Cologne you will be enrolled in the Short-Term Study Programme of the Faculty of Arts and Humanities. The Short-Term Study Programme gives you access to a large number of modules from the various Bachelor, Master and Teacher Education programmes offered at UoC's Faculty of Arts and Humanities. Additionally, you can attend courses from UoC's Studium Integrale and in the Department for German as a Foreign Language.

- Current course listings for short-term students can be accessed in KLIPS 2.0 via this link (please choose desired academic year in the upper right corner)
- Information on all available modules (credit points, co-requisite courses, workload reduced options, exams) can be found in the Module Guide for Short-Term Students
- Before you can register for courses in KLIPS 2.0, your course choices ("Learning Agreement") need to be approved by philfak-incomings@uni-koeln.de

2. Understanding UoC's module system

At UoC all study programmes are structured into modules. A "module" is a teaching unit that contains one to five thematically related courses/ classes (e.g. seminar, lecture, etc.) that must be taken together. The number of courses/ classes varies from module to module.

See for example the module "AM 2: Media Culture and Society" below:

Advanced module AM 2: Medienkultur und Gesellschaft [4227MBXAM2]	12 CP
Lecture: Medien und Kultur	✓
Seminar: Mediennutzung und kulturelle Kommunikation	✓
Practical course: Medien-Kritik	✓
Module exam (written): term paper (15 pages) in the seminar	✓

This module is made up of three co-requisite courses (other modules may contain less or more courses):

- 1.) a lecture on "Media and Culture"
- 2.) a seminar on "Media Use and Cultural Communication"
- 3.) a practical course on "Media Critique"

+ the final module exam (term paper).

➔ Students are required to take all three courses as well as the final module exam to pass this module and receive credit points!

Module Exam (“Modulprüfung”)

Irrespective of the number of courses/ classes it contains, every module has only one exam (“Modulprüfung”), i.e. one exam per module, not one per course!). Exam types differ across modules and include written exams, term papers, oral and combined exams. Module exams may cover all or only certain parts/ classes of the module.

See for example the module “AM 2: Media Culture and Society” below:

Advanced module AM 2: Medienkultur und Gesellschaft [4227MBXAM2]	12 CP
Lecture: Medien und Kultur	✓
Seminar: Mediennutzung und kulturelle Kommunikation	✓
Practical course: Medien-Kritik	✓
Module exam (written): term paper (15 pages) in the seminar	✓

In this module, the module exam is a term paper that needs to be written in the seminar (in other modules, exams may take different forms and/or refer to different courses).

→ Details on every module exam can be found in the module guide for short-term students

In addition to the module exam, all courses/ classes of a module require coursework (“Studienleistungen”, such as short presentations, assignments, exercises etc.). Coursework is not graded.

3. Workload reduced study options for short-term students

In many larger modules, workload reduced study options are available that allow short-term students to leave out certain courses/ classes of the module if they do not wish to complete the full teaching unit. Workload reduced study options are clearly defined in the module guide for short-term students:

→ Courses that can be left out are marked with (-), courses that are mandatory are marked with (✓). The module exam is always mandatory (to receive credit points)!

See for example the module “AM 2: Media Culture and Society” below:

	Full module	Workload reduced options

Advanced module AM 2: Medienkultur und Gesellschaft [4227MBXAM2]	12 CP	10 CP	9 CP	7 CP
Lecture: Medien und Kultur	✓	-	✓	-
Seminar: Mediennutzung und kulturelle Kommunikation	✓	✓	✓	✓
Practical course: Medien-Kritik	✓	✓	-	-
Module exam (written): term paper (15 pages) in the seminar	✓	✓	✓	✓

In this module short-term students can choose between four different study options (in other modules there may be less or different options): the full module option for 12 CP and three different reduced options as shown.

4. Choosing courses from KLIPS 2.0

- In order to view your course options follow this link to the Short-Term Study Programme of the Faculty of Arts and Humanities on KLIPS 2.0 and choose your desired academic year in the upper right corner.
- You can now see the Short-Term Study Programme in the form of a “module tree”. By clicking on “+” you can expand the tree structure and view the modules offered in the different subject areas.

→ Correct course choices for the module “AM 2: Media Culture and Society” could look like this for example:

Advanced module AM 2: Medienkultur und Gesellschaft [4227MBXAM2]	12 CP
Lecture: Medien und Kultur → 14227.0005 Populäre Bilder	✓
Seminar: Mediennutzung und kulturelle Kommunikation → 14227.0212 Ausstellungen als mediale Form. Geschichte und Theorie des Museums	✓
Practical course: Medien-Kritik → 14676.0043 Forschungskolleg	✓
Module exam (written): term paper (15 pages) in the seminar	✓

5. Learning Agreement: Approval of your course choices

➤ Before you can sign up for courses in KLIPS 2.0, you need to send a list of your desired modules/courses (“Learning Agreement”) to philfak-incomings@uni-koeln.de for approval!

Please format your Learning Agreement as shown below.

If you are using the Erasmus OLA platform, make sure to enter philfak-incomings@uni-koeln.de as the responsible person’s e-mail address!

6. Rules and hints for course selection

Access to modules / study levels:

- ➔ Short-term students should primarily choose their courses from the Short-Term Study Programme. In case you need courses that are not part of the Short-Term Study Programme, please contact phifak-incomings@uni-koeln.de.
- ➔ As a general rule, Bachelor's students can choose courses from Bachelor's modules and Studium Integrale, while Master's students can choose courses from Bachelor's modules, Master's modules, and Studium Integrale. By way of exception, Bachelor's students may take Master's modules if they have proven previous knowledge in the field of study in question. Requests need to be directed to phifak-incomings@uni-koeln.de.
- ➔ If you are a student in Teacher Education, you can also choose courses from our Teacher Education modules.
- ➔ Finding suitable modules for your study level:
 - Core modules ("Basismodule") convey basic knowledge in a field of study and are designed for students in their first to second year.
 - Advanced modules ("Aufbaumodule") serve to deepen previously acquired knowledge in a field of study and are designed for students in their second to third year.
 - Specialisation modules ("Schwerpunktmodule") serve to specialise further in a field of study in which students already have solid previous knowledge. They are designed for students in their second or third year.
 - Supplementary modules ("Ergänzungsmodule") allow students to explore additional fields of study throughout their entire study period.

Credit points (ECTS):

- ➔ There is no minimum or maximum number of credit points (ECTS) that short-term students should achieve, but we recommend to do no more than 30 ECTS per semester.
- ➔ The number of credit points (ECTS) awarded for every module or workload reduced option is stipulated in the module guide for short-term students.
- ➔ It is not possible to change the number of credit points (ECTS) of a module or workload reduced option as credit points are defined in the system.

Course descriptions (syllabus):

- ➔ Course descriptions are usually provided in the "Course – Detailed View" window that opens when you click on the course title in KLIPS 2.0. Often, course descriptions are only displayed when you choose the German language setting (in the top right corner).

Understanding course entries in KLIPS 2.0:

14206.0306 20S 2SWS SE Music and cultural memory

 Spinetti F

100 Alter Seminarraum 17.04.20
1.408 (46 Sitzpl.) 14:00 -
(100/04/1.408) 18:30

- (1) The first number you can see (“14206.0306”) is the course code. The course code should not be confused with the module code, which contains both numbers and capital letters and always comes in square brackets like e.g. “[4227MBFAM2]”.
- (2) The second abbreviation (“20S”) indicates in which semester the course is offered. “19W” = “winter semester 2019/20”, “20S” = “summer semester 2020”, “20W” = “winter semester 2020/21”, “21S” = “summer semester 2021” etc.
- (3) The third abbreviation (“2SWS”) indicates the number of class hours per week (“Semesterwochenstunden”) of the course in question. One class hour (“SWS”) equals 45 minutes. Most courses have two class hours per week.
- (4) The fourth abbreviation (“SE”) indicates the type of the course. These are the most common course types (German / English):
 - VO – Vorlesung / L – Lecture
 - SE – Seminar / SE – Seminar
 - ES – Einführungsseminar / IS – Introductory seminar
 - PS – Proseminar / P - Course with introduction to theoretical aspects
 - HS – Hauptseminar / AS – Advanced seminar
 - UE – Übung / P – Practical course
 - KO – Kolloquium / CO – Colloquium
 - SP – Sprachkurs / LC – Language course
 - TT – Tutorium / P – Tutorial
- (5) On the right, you can see the first scheduled date of the course. Most courses are held at the same time every week. You should check the scheduled dates of your desired courses when putting your timetable together to avoid any overlaps (click on the course title and scroll down to “Scheduled Dates” in the new window that opens).

NOTE: in the current pandemic situation there might be different course rhythms not necessarily shown in KLIPS 2.0, e.g. off-weeks, self-study periods etc. Please always read the information in the course description!

When you stay for two semesters:

- ➔ Note that it is not possible to take a module twice. Once a module has been successfully completed (i.e. the module exam was passed), no further exam can be taken in that module.
- ➔ It is possible to spread modules made up of several courses over two semesters, provided that the required courses are available in the following semester.

7. Course Registration

- Before you can sign up for courses in KLIPS 2.0, you need to send a list of your desired modules/courses ("Learning Agreement") to philfak-incomings@uni-koeln.de for approval
- When signing up for courses via KLIPS 2.0 pay close attention to choosing the correct module contexts (see step 5) and enrol in all required courses of the module!

Prerequisite for course registration is payment of the semester contribution.

- 1) Switch your KLIPS 2.0 profile from "Applicant" to "Student" if necessary.
- 2) On your business card, click on the application "Registration Status" to view your study programme:

Forschung & Lehre	Studium	Ressourcen	Dienste

IMPORTANT: When you can see different options here, this means that the course you are signing up for is available in several modules or module segments.

It is very important that you choose the correct module context at this point, i.e. precisely the module/module part that you intend to complete (as agreed in your Learning Agreement)!

6) Choose a course group and click on “Register”:

7) To view all courses you have signed up for so far, go to your KLIPS 2.0 business card and click on “Course registration”:

8) In the “Course registration” application, you can also deregister from a course if needed by clicking on the green arrow icon next to the course title and then on the “Deregister” button on the right:

9) Recommendations and Trouble-shooting:

- ➔ When signing up for courses, make sure to avoid timetable clashes. You can find the “scheduled dates” of each course when you click on the title of the course and scroll down.
- ➔ It is possible and recommended to apply for a number of different courses in the same module segment as back-up to enhance chances of receiving a confirmed place (“Fixplatz”). This is not necessary for lectures, but recommended for seminars, practical courses, and language courses as course places are limited in these courses.
- ➔ Note that course place requests in the same module segment are treated as alternatives. If you want to take two specific courses, you should not apply for them through the same module context, as you can receive only one “confirmed place” per module segment.

- ➔ If you try to register for a course and KLIPS 2.0 tells you “No curriculum node can be selected” this means that the course is not part of the short-term study programme. Please perform the above steps 2 and 3 to view course offerings of the short-term study programme.

- ➔ Course places are allocated through a lottery system at the end of the registration period. Allocation results are displayed one week after the end of the registration period at the latest. When you click on “Course registration” on your KLIPS business card, you can see your current registration status in all the courses you applied for:
 - ➔ “Course place request” or “Waiting list” means that you have requested a place in this course. If you still have this status one week after the end of the registration period, this means that you have not received a confirmed place in this course. In this case, you can nevertheless attend the first lesson to see if you can move up into the course.

 - ➔ “Confirmed place” means that have been accepted to the course. Make sure to attend the first lesson of the course, otherwise you might lose your place to someone on the waiting list. If you cannot attend the first lesson, write an e-mail to the lecturer in advance.
